Railroads Vote For Merger

Uproar Marks Decision By Lackawanna

NEW YORK (AP) — Stockholders of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western and the Erie Railroads Tuesday gave thumping votes of approval to a proposed merger.

Erie stockholders voted "yes" in a routine, orderly meeting, but an uproar developed at the Lackawanna conclave. A group of stockholders assailed several merger terms and threatened a court action.

Both the Erie and Lackawanna presidents predicted the merger would be consummated in the first half of next year, provided there were no legal blockades.

Erie stockholders approved the merger by 1,785,601 shares to 7,611 and Lackawanna by 1,280,650 to 26,619.

The merger would produce a rail system covering 3,119 miles extending from Jersey City and Hoboken, N. J., to Scranton, Pa., Binghamton and Buffalo, N. Y., Youngstown, Cleveland and Akron, Ohio, and Chicago. Assets would total 737 million dollars.

Holders of various bond issues of the two roads are scheduled to meet later this week. They must approve modifications in the bond indentures as the next merger step. Then, the Interstate Commerce Commission will hold a hearing in Buffalo Sept. 29.

Arnold L. Fein, attorney for the dissenting Lackawanna group, said he would ask the ICC to postpone this hearing.

LiFein outlined in detail the objections of his clients to the merger. These emphasized the fact that Erie stockholders will receive 1 1/4 shares of stock in the new company for each share held while Lackawanna shareholders will get one for one.

As previously announced, the merged road would be known as the Erie-Lackawanna Railroad Co. Erie preferred stock will not be affected. All existing bonds will remain outstanding as obligations of the merged company.

New Jersey Lists Plan For Highways

TRENTON, N. J. (AP) — New Jersey Highway Commissioner Dwight R. G. Palmer Tuesday announced a 119-million-dollar roads program for 1959-1960.

Palmer told a news conference $58,700,000 will be spent on the Bergen-Passaic Expressway, most of it in Bergen County. The only other interstate freeway project on the program is construction of Route 255 from Route 47 to Verga in Gloucester County at an estimated cost of $3,700,000.

Palmer said a 22-million-dollar cutback in New Jersey's federal aid for interstate freeways forced postponement of work on the Essex-East-West Freeway, the Middlesex Freeway, Route 78 in Hunterdon and Somerset counties and Route 80 in Morris.

Primary Projects
Here is part of the county-by-county list of primary and urban projects.

Hunterdon-Somerset — Dualization of Route 202 from Three Bridges to Holland Brook, $3,000,000.

Mercer — Completion of Route 129 from Route 29 to Scotch Road, $2,220,000.

Hunterdon — Creeper lanes on Route 69 from Ringoes to Rocktown, $250,000; and reconstruction of Route 12 at Frenchtown, $250,000.

Mercer — Right-of-way for Route 129 from Route 1 to Scotch Road, $1,000,000.

Warren — Rehabilitation of the approaches to the Route 22 bridge in Phillipsburg, $900,000.

Senate Refuses To Extend Tax

HARRISBURG (AP) — The Senate, in a surprise move, Tuesday night defeated an administration measure to extend to gas firms the 14-mill tax on gross receipts of public utilities. The vote was 30-20.

But the Senate passed, 28-22, a companion measure to double the 4-mill tax on bank shares.

12 Members Of Family Drown As Boat Swamps

MUNISING, Mich. (AP) — A mother, 10 of her children and their uncle drowned Tuesday when their 12-foot outboard motorboat swamped and pitched them into a lake in upper Michigan's Hiawatha National Forest. Only the children's father survived.

None of the 13 persons crowded aboard the little boat could swim. It carried no life jackets.

The family — a tenth the population of little Skandia, Mich. — was on a family outing, headed across the lake to pick cranberries in a bog. Skandia's elementary school was closed for alterations.

Except for himself and a 16-year-old daughter whose high school wasn't closed, the family of Leonard Larson, 43, a sawmill, was wiped out. State Police Sgt. Clarence Miller said Larson told him the little boat, with water lapping at the edges, suddenly lurched on its side when he started the five-horsepower motor.

The Larsons had just pushed off from shore. Miller estimated they were no more than 250 feet out when tragedy struck.

Miller quoted the father as saying neither he nor any of the others could swim, but he managed to grab hold of the side of the boat as he toppled out and got a hand "on one of the girls once."

The boat rolled, its motor going. The father lost his hold on the child, then grabbed her between his knees. But in frantic struggles she broke loose.

Victims were Dora Larson, 41, the mother; Harry Larson, 64, her brother-in-law, and these Larson children: Arthur, 15; Shirley, 13; Harry, 10; Marlene, 9; Freddie, 8; Carol, 7; Robert, 6; Mary Ann, 5; Melody, 3, and Terry Lee, 5 months.

All the bodies were recovered from Lake McKee, a beautiful landmark about a quarter-mile wide and a mile long, deep in the north woods of poet Longfellow's Hiawatha. The scene is 14 miles southeast of Munising.

Khrushchev Receives Warm Welcome In Des Moines Area

DES MOINES (AP) — Des Moines gave Nikita Khrushchev a welcome Tuesday like the noonday meal on an Iowa farm, warm and substantial.

The crowds, proportionately, were the biggest of any city he has visited. And they applauded more warmly than in any other place except San Francisco.

He stood on the sidewalk in front of his hotel, amiably answering reporters' questions, turning to smile at the people crowded around him, and waving at other spectators massed on the spiral ramp of a parking garage across the street.

He looked as casual and at ease as a farmer come to town to shop and trade thoughts on the crops.

Then he walked into the hotel lobby, still grinning broadly, and shook hands with employees and people standing there. The easy informality of the Middle West obviously sat well with him.

He commented on a placard he had passed coming in from the airport—"We don't always agree with you but we welcome you."

Through his interpreter, Khrushchev said, "That's the way we feel and that's a good sentiment. We don't always agree with you either but we welcome any effort to settle our differences."

Khrushchev did not comment on some other placards, expressing different sentiments. "The only good Communist is a dead Communist," said one. "We butcher hogs here, not people," said another. "No Munich on the Potomac," put his eyes on the street in front of the hotel.

But the marquee above his entrance told him he was welcome. It has been reported Khrushchev was disappointed with the unenthusiastic reception he has had in other cities. Some observers believe his reaction has definitely chilled the possibility of starting his talks with President Eisenhower this week in a friendly mood.

The Des Moines welcome, coming immediately after the cheerful scenes in San Francisco, could very well change his mind.

Capt. Argeo Hernandez, chief of rural police at Baracoa, said the suspects planned to seize the town's airport and blow up a munitions depot. He identified the leader as Miguel Alba, a veteran of Batista's defeated army.

Rural Police Chief

The action was reported centered at Baracoa, a port of 10,000 where Cuba's first white settlement was founded in 1511-12. It is 80 miles from Havana, whose Dominican and Haitian governments are both viewed with suspicion by Havana officials.

Good Morning!

When things go wrong, remember you don't have to go with them.

U.S. Blocks Red China In U.N.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The United States succeeded again Tuesday in getting the United Nations to sidetrack for another year the question of admitting Communist China.

But despite recent turmoil in Asia for which the West blamed the Chinese Reds the victory margin was one vote less than last year.

By a vote of 44-29 with 9 abstentions the General Assembly approved a U.S. resolution asking that it postpone any consideration of proposals either to admit the Chinese Reds or to exclude the Chinese Nationalists.

It was the ninth straight year the U.N. had sidetracked the Red China membership issue.

Personal Plea

By its action the Assembly rejected Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's personal plea here last week that it was high time to kick out the Chinese Nationalists and install the Chinese Reds as one of the major U.N. powers.

The vote last year on an identical resolution was 44-28 with 9 abstentions. There were some switches this year. Guinea, a new member, joined the many Asian-African nations opposing the U.S. stand.

This year Laos changed its vote from abstaining to yes. The South-east Asia kingdom has accused Peiping of encouraging North Viet Nam in acts of aggression along the northern border. A U.N. subcommittee is in Laos investigating the charges.

Cuba cracked the hitherto solid position of the 20-nation Latin-American bloc in supporting the U.S. position. Cuba abstained, the only Latin American nation to do so.

Greece, which abstained last year, joined the yes votes. Its vote last year reflected unhappiness with the Western delegations over their position on Cyprus. The vote was also a rebuff to India which again championed the right of Red China to U.N. membership.

India's defense minister, V. K. Krishna Menon, made a final plea for approval of a Nepalese resolution that would have reversed the U.S. proposal.

Report Made By Walter

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Committee on Un-American Activities reported Tuesday that Communist nations are netting millions of dollars annually in the United States through fees on aid parcels sent behind the iron curtain.

"Only the Communist regimes of the Soviet Union, Poland, Hungary and Czechoslovakia have in the history of the world so capitalized on suffering citizens as a means of raising money to assist in financing themselves in the free markets of the world," the committee said.

The account was contained in a report entitled "The Communist Parcel Operation" made public by Chairman Francis E. Walter (D-Pa.).

Yesterday's Deaths

WASHINGTON — President Eisenhower was quoted yesterday as being concerned that too much money was being spent for highway improvements in and around cities, instead of on inter-city roads.

His sentiments were expressed in a statement accompanying his signing of the highway financing bill raising the federal gasoline tax one cent a gallon, effective Oct. 1.

Eisenhower made it clear, however, that he did not regard the increase as sufficient and

Four Persons Suffer Injuries In Two-Car Accident Occurring On Highway Route 209

FOUR PERSONS were injured in a two-car accident at 3 p. m. yesterday on Route 209 near Ritter's Sporting Goods store.

State Police of the local barracks identified the drivers as Frank Scamuffa, 41, Brandywine Circle, Coatesville, R. D. 1, and Clarence R. Huff, 72, P. O. Box 13, Huntington, N. Y.

Troopers said Scamuffa was traveling east on the highway when he slammed on his brakes to avoid a tree-cutting firm truck parked partially on the highway and his car swung into the westbound lane, striking Huff's vehicle.

Huff suffered a cut lower lip, broken ribs and contusions of the right knee, while Scamuffa sustained cuts of the right elbow and chest.

Mariam W. Huff, 63, sustained a broken left leg and broken left thumb, while Nell Metzgar, 73, of 138 Broad St., Stroudsburg, sustained a broken jaw and face cuts. Both were passengers in Huff's car.

Damage to the front ends of both vehicles was extensive. The injured were taken to Monroe County General Hospital.

Public School Bible Reading To Continue Until Appeal Is Decided In Supreme Court

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The reading of the Bible in Pennsylvania's public schools can continue, even though a special federal court has struck down the practice as unconstitutional, pending final determination of its legality by the nation's highest tribunal.

Chief Judge John Biggs Jr., of the Third U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals gave temporary permission for continued reading of 10 verses of the Bible—as provided in state law—until an appeal is heard by the U. S. Supreme Court. It could be a year or more before any final ruling is made.

A three-judge court, examining the 1949 law's legality, last Wednesday ruled the statute violated the 1st and 14th Amendments of the U. S. Constitution.

The attack on the Bible reading law—and also against compulsory recitation of the Lord's Prayer—was brought in 1958 by Mr. and Mrs. Edward L. Schlempp of Roslyn, Montgomery County. They have children attending schools in Abington Twp. and protested against what they claimed was religious instruction. The Schlempps are Unitarians.

Religion Agreement
The three judges agreed that reading of the Bible was a religious act, and thus violated the constitutional provision providing separation of church and state.

C. Brewster Rhoads, solicitor for the Abington school district, said Tuesday he has 60 days from Sept. 16 to file his appeal with the Supreme Court. He said he will use most of that time in preparing his written arguments to upset the three-judge decision.

Meantime, two Lancaster County representatives, both Republicans, introduced a bill Tuesday in the State House to make Bible reading in public schools optional instead of compulsory.

Reps. Edwin D. Eshleman and Norman Wood said optional federal court objections.

Area Appointment
HARRISBURG (AP) — Gov. Lawrence Tuesday asked the Senate to confirm his appointment of Bernard J. Reimer, Bangor R. D. 1, Northampton County, as justice of the peace for Upper Mount Bethel Twp.

License Fee Approved
HARRISBURG (AP) — A doubling of the $1-a-year driver's license fee was approved 125-65 by the House Tuesday night.

Indicated there would be a slowdown in the interstate superhighway program from the annual levels originally contemplated.

The President attributed this to Congress' refusal to raise the tax by one and one-half cents effective last July 1, as he had asked.

He disclosed that "a comprehensive review of the interstate program's current policies, practices, methods and standards" had been underway since July under the direction

Interest Rate Increase On Savings Bonds

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower Tuesday ordered one-half of one per cent increase in interest rates on U. S. savings bonds. It affects old bonds as well as new ones.

All series "E" and "H" bonds bought since last June 1 will pay 3 1/2 per cent if held until they mature. The old rate was 3 1/4 per cent.

On bonds sold between Feb. 1, 1957, and May 31, 1959, rates will be boosted to 3 3/4 per cent as of June 1. This means they earned the old rate prior to June 1 but now will benefit from the increase for the remainder of their maturity period.

Retrospective
Bonds sold before Feb. 1, 1957, start earning 3 1/2 per cent, retroactive to June 1. Some of these bonds had been paying 2 1/2 per cent and some 3 per cent.

Acting on recommendation of Secretary of the Treasury Robert B. Anderson, the President decided a jump to 3 3/4 per cent was sufficient.

Savings bonds sales have been in a slump for months because, with other rates rising, savers could earn more interest by putting their money to work in other ways.

Eisenhower said he hopes the new rates "will serve as a renewed invitation to every citizen to buy and hold these 'shares in America.'"

The President declared there is "no better way of saving, no more effective way of strengthening our power for peace."

As part of the new program, all bonds now outstanding can be extended for an additional 10 years after they next reach maturity. Some bonds already have been extended once.

Ironsides Dies
LONDON (AP) — Field Marshal Lord Ironsides, 79, Britain's top soldier at the outbreak of World War II, died at Millbank Military Hospital here Tuesday night.

The reason for the study was the President's concern that the program might be departing from its original objectives and costing more than necessary.

One of the places where the excessive costs are indicated is in the construction of highways in and around cities, he was quoted as saying. This was an obvious reference to the fact that many miles of highways can be built in rural areas for the same amount of money it takes to build one mile in the heavily congested, high property value sections of cities.

The same reasoning was put forth by the Keystone Shortway Assn. in urging the State Highways Department to speed construction of the Stroudsburg-Sharon superhighway rather than allocate its biggest appropriations for road improvements in such metropolitan areas as Philadelphia.

Soviet Chief To Visit Farm Today

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev, warmly welcomed in the heart of America's farmlands, plugged Tuesday for regular visits between the heads of governments.

The onetime Ukrainian sheepherder, now a foremost advocate of personal diplomacy, told a welcoming crowd: "It is always better to meet and talk than to exchange messages which are not always very friendly. A couple of meetings a year would be fine."

That was in reply to a reporter who asked whether one-year visits between heads of government would advance the cause of peace.

Khrushchev's welcome in this center of the nation's greatest food-producing area as warm—not as warm, perhaps, as the one which delighted him in San Francisco, his last previous stop.

However, the greeting he got here could help further to clear away the bad feeling Khrushchev had after his Los Angeles visit last weekend when he got angry with Mayor Norris Poulson and the movie industry.

Transport Jet
The big U. S. military transport jet which brought the Red Premier here from San Francisco bounced a bit as it landed. A strong crosswind was blowing.

But there was nothing but serenity in the official exchange of greetings.

Gov. Herschel C. Loveless told Khrushchev: "We know your great interest in agriculture and in modern methods of production. We stand ready to show you our farms, our factories, our laboratories and machines."

Loveless also bade the Communist chieftain welcome to Iowa's schools, homes, churches and historic shrines. And then the governor got in a plug of his own: "Culturally, as well as geographically, Iowa is the heart of America."

For the moment, however, Khrushchev showed more interest in corn than culture.

"We know that so far as corn is concerned," he said, "you are the first in the United States. We are competing with you there, and we hope it will be a useful competition."

The Premier noted he was looking forward to his visit today to the farm of Roswell (Bob) Garst at Coon Rapids.

It was back in 1955 that the Soviets became interested in the crop handling and livestock feeding operations at the Garst farm. The Soviet Minister of Agriculture visited there four years ago in an American-Soviet farm exchange.

Garst plans to tell Khrushchev how it is that 12 percent of the American people can produce enough food to feed everybody, whereas it takes 50 percent of the people of the Soviet Union to produce a less nourishing diet.

"I've come here to meet the people of Iowa and my old friend, Garst," Khrushchev told his well-wishers. Garst has been a guest of the Khrushchevs in Moscow.

Police estimated that somewhat more than 25,000 people altogether were out to see Khrushchev. About 220,000 people live in greater Des Moines.

This time authorities had provided an open-top car for the temperamental Premier.

No 'Absolute Safety'

By William A. Doyle
International Investment Analyst

Q. I have a wife and all the others who write that people should never speculate. You constantly preach that investors should not take risks—that they should look for 'absolute safety' anytime they buy stocks by purchasing only "blue chips."

Where do you think this country would be today if people had refused to take chances and downright gambled with their money to start new companies and new industries? Let's see you stop that one.

A. Stop it! I'll do better than that. I'll bat it right back through the infield and maybe even rattle the outfield fence. In the first place, this column has never said that there is 'absolute safety' in any investments—stocks, bonds or anything else. There is some risk in every kind of security. Secondly, I do not preach that people should never speculate. Speculation is an important and necessary part of our economic way of life. But I do preach and will continue to preach that the vast majority of people in this country should avoid as much risk as possible in their investments.

Downright speculation should only be taken on by people who can afford and who are prepared to take the risk involved.

Furthermore, this column has stressed that most people should not make even conservative investments until they have 'extra' money—after they have put away a savings reserve of cash, have adequate insurance and have met all the other necessary requirements of personal financial safety.

Now, putting venture capital into new companies and new industries is a very worthwhile and often rewarding thing. If people had not put up venture capital over the years, this country and the whole world would probably still be in the economic dark ages.

But putting money into new companies is usually quite risky. Do you seriously believe that most people are either financially or emotionally prepared to take that risk?

Q. I own some Tri-Continental Corp. warrants. Each warrant entitles me to purchase 1.27 shares of stock at $17.76 a share.

If I bought the stock the warrants entitle me to and then sold that stock, could I also keep the warrants?

A. That would be a nice trick. If you could do it. But you can't.

When you 'exercise' warrants by purchasing the stock the warrants entitle you to, you put up the necessary cash and turn in the warrants. You then own just the stock.

Q. Please help settle a hot little argument. What three companies have the largest number of stockholders?

A. The latest available figures show that American Telephone & Telegraph (as usual) leads the list with about 1.7 million shareholders. General Motors is in second place with more than 650,000 stockholders and Standard Oil (New Jersey) ranks third with better than 400,000 owners of its shares.

Opposes Point System
HARRISBURG (AP)—Gov. Lawrence said recently he would veto a proposed point system for traffic violations because, in its present form, it waters down penalties now in effect.

Doyle will answer only representative letters of general interest in his column. He cannot answer phone queries.

J. C. Penney Firm Lists Record Sales

RECORD sales and earnings were achieved by the J. C. Penney Co. in the six months that ended on July 31, the department store chain reported in its statement issued for publication yesterday.

Net earnings, after providing $21,450,000 for taxes, were $19,617,415, equal to $2.28 a share on 8,531,952 common shares outstanding. This compares with $15,199,341 or $1.85 a share for the 1958 period when taxes were $16,070,000.

Sales rose 9.06 per cent to $59,306,575 from $54,515,805 a year earlier. The company had 1,681 stores in operation on July 31, against 1,685 a year earlier.

Leases Completed
William M. Batten, president, said that leases had been completed on 59 new stores, 22 of which were scheduled for opening in 1960. All but two will be in shopping centers. In the last half of this fiscal year, eleven new stores will be opened, nineteen new stores are slated to be moved to new buildings and 106 are to be expanded and modernized.

In the first half of this year, 10 stores were opened, 14 moved to new buildings and 100 were expanded or modernized. About 22 small stores would be closed during the fiscal year where continued operation had been found uneconomical, Batten said.

The increase in profit over the 1958 level was attributed, in a small degree, to changing from a calendar year basis to a fiscal year ending on Jan. 31.

Stroud Township Airs 31-Day Extension Of Discount Period For Payment Of Taxes

MISS Myrtle Angle, tax collector for Stroud Township, yesterday announced a 31-day extension for the discount period for payment of school, county and township taxes.

This means that township residents and property owners may take advantage of the two percent discount if they pay their taxes on or before Oct. 31.

Since the extension applies only to Stroud Township, the discount period for the rest of the county ends Sept. 30.

Miss Angle said all unpaid occupational and property taxes will be subject to a five percent penalty on taxes paid after Nov. 30. This represents no change from other taxing districts in the county.

The Stroud extension was granted at Miss Angle's request. She was the last tax collector in the county to receive the 1959 duplicate.

The delay, she explained, was occasioned by the large amount of work connected with the county-wide tax equalization and reassessment program.

The duplicate was turned over to Miss Angle on Aug. 15 and she mailed the last tax notices on Sept. 6, she said. The job ordinarily takes eight weeks.

The Senior and Junior Choirs provided special music accompanied by Mrs. Frank Schick. Rev. Robert Zuch brought the message.

During the morning service Cheryl Ann Beers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Beers, received the sacrament of Holy Baptism.

Public Housing Among Reports Made By White House Committee

By Harlan Stone

MONROE County needs more low-rent public housing and a detention home for juvenile delinquents, committees surveying children and youth services and needs said yesterday.

These were two among many recommendations which will be boiled down into a county-wide report being prepared for the Sixth White House Conference on Children and Youth in March.

This final report, based on the findings of the five county sub-committees which met at the Penn-Stroud Hotel yesterday, will be presented to the public at the County Court House Oct. 13.

The report on housing recommended that a second 100 units of low-rent government-run housing be built in the county.

Monroe County Commissioners have not endorsed this housing because of the competition it presents to local landlords, the report said.

The county also needs a building code, a housing ordinance and a Board of Health with the power to warn property owners of violations, the report stated. All these would help bring up the standard of housing.

At present there are 200 sub-standard dwellings in Stroudsburg and East Stroudsburg. A survey in December, 1958, showed that out of over 700 homes, 110 were inadequate. Children lived in 87 of these. The report said lack of adequate housing has helped deter new industries from moving into the area.

A report on resources for handling delinquent children and youth said that there are no institutional facilities for the detention and rehabilitation of juvenile delinquents. Those under 16 are allowed to remain with their parents. Those over 16 are placed on the second floor of the county jail. The second floor has been condemned, the report said, because there is no fire escape.

Out of about 50 law enforcement officers throughout the county, not one has been trained to handle juvenile delinquents. There are only two probation officers.

The committee recommended that a detention home be established and that a policeman be trained for work with delinquents.

Besides the housing report, there were four others under the heading of resources for strengthening family life.

Parental counseling or education: It was recommended that a Social Planning Committee within the Community Chest be set up to coordinate the services of various groups to prevent overlapping. A family welfare agency should work in coordination with the Children's Aid Society, The Home Extension

YOUTH SERVICES — County Co-ordinator Mrs. Frank L. Patterson Jr. looks over the reports submitted yesterday on county services for children and youth. With her are teenage members of the Monroe County White House Conference on Children and Youth Committee. From left are Nancy Flory, Gary Kester, Pat Van Why, Doug Metzgar, Jennet Cramer, Mrs. Patterson and Jim Williams.

Financial and economic status: The over-all level of employment in the county is good, but teen-agers who have to quit school cannot find work. Inadequate clothing among poor families makes children, especially girls, feel inferior and quit school to find jobs which will bring in more family income.

It was recommended that teen-agers be trained for useful occupations at 16, that PTA groups carry out a visiting aid program and that public assistance grants be increased. The committee suggested that the White House Conference survey be carried out every five instead of 10 years.

Encouragement of religious life—It was recommended that family home altars be encouraged. Churches should hold adult classes in the meaning of Christianity and set up youth programs which will help explain to teen-agers their place in life.

Family recreation — This report indicated that Monroe County offers abundant opportunities for recreation, especially in sports, outdoor life and community program such as concerts.

The report on resources for dependent and neglected children and youth said that the county's foster home care and protective care programs are adequate and went on to recommend that these services be provided:

A group adolescent home for four to six teenagers from 14 to 18 years old, a state home for delinquent teenage girls, a home for epileptics, a group day-care center and a home-maker service.

The report said that the board rate for foster care homes should be raised from the present seven dollars a week which covers the cost of keeping a foster child.

The committee on resources for the education, recreation, and employment of children and youth recommended that the county provide an incentive for adult education above the high school level, award more scholarships for college-bound students, provide more financial aid for college students, work for the establishment of community colleges, set up sheltered workshops for retarded children over 16 and provide workshops for gifted children.

The committee said there is not sufficient classroom space in the county for mentally retarded pupils.

To further the recreation resources for children and youth the county needs more money for youth centers and recreational leaders, the same committee said. A summer camp program should be set up for retarded children.

The study on employment showed that a problem exists for 16-18 years old seeking work and that a sheltered workshop is needed for the handicapped.

The report on physical and mental health resources recommended that the county needs more family service, pre-school speech clinic service, health education and pre-natal service. Dental rooms should be located in the high schools, and the Tuberculosis Society should keep a county case registration file.

Thirty percent of about 7,000 children in school had defects of one kind or another, a survey showed. Eighty-five percent of these defects were later corrected. In another survey, teachers said 1,300 out of 6,800 school children needed special help in classes.

In 1958, 66 children used the services of the Child Guidance Center of Monroe and Northampton counties in Easton. Expanded psychological services were recommended.

The committee on Review and Preview, 1950-1970, prophesied that in another 10 years Monroe County will have four large high schools and a parochial school. There will be a day-care center and, at East Stroudsburg State Teachers College, a special education building with a speech clinic. The YMCA will be truly county-wide.

The county library will grow until it becomes one of the leading centers of education here. New highways will lead to the expansion of industry west of Stroudsburg. The population will increase and, along with it, juvenile delinquency.

A youth center may be built for children and youth co-ordinating committee set up.

Two Monroe County Men Face Grand Jury After Arrest By Sheriff In New York State

TWO Monroe County men, missing since Saturday afternoon when they purportedly went groundhog hunting, are being held in the Warren County, N.Y., jail on charges of violating the Sullivan Act: illegal possession of firearms.

Gerard Exley, 20, of 191 Grove St., East Stroudsburg, and William Kimschaft, 24 Garden St., Stroudsburg, were apprehended Sunday at 5 a.m. by Sheriff Robert Lilly and deputies after a gas station operator had called their office to report the two in a truck carrying various weapons.

Exley had been reported missing late Saturday by his wife to Travis Seese, East Stroudsburg Chief of Police. She said her husband had called earlier to say he would be late for lunch. He is employed at the Stroudsburg Army-Navy Store.

Seese reported he learned the missing Exley had left the store with Kimschaft to go groundhog hunting. Kimschaft's wife then corroborated this statement, and said her husband had stayed away from home before.

Sheriff Lilly said his office had received a report from a gas station proprietor in Glen Falls, a town near Lake George, N. Y., that two men were in a truck with several weapons.

The two were picked up by the authorities, and Exley and Kimschaft told Lilly they were headed for Canada "to look around."

Lilly said the pair had $435 between them when they were apprehended.

Both Exley and Kimschaft waived examination before a justice of the peace, and are being held in Lake George for the Warren County Grand Jury which will meet Oct. 5.

Refreshments will be served following the meeting. Persons desiring transportation may contact George Rung at Hamilton 1-5215.

Single Agency Essential

The blueprint for a new agency to administer all the water resources of the Delaware River Basin in a multiple-purpose program has been unveiled upon completion of a two year study made by a graduate research group at Syracuse University.

Highlight of the comprehensive survey is the recommendation that a Delaware River Commission be established as a federal-interstate agency and that it be given authority over all water development in the river basin.

It would consist of one member each from Pennsylvania, New York, New Jersey and Delaware, and one federal member appointed by the President. The governors of the four states would name their representatives and all members would serve without salary.

Scope of the commission's authority over municipal and industrial water supplies, public recreational facilities at reservoir sites, pollution control, dams and hydroelectric power plants to be built, and the flow of water from the dams.

Setting up of such an agency is highly essential to bring about unified planning in the Delaware Basin. From an economic standpoint, the Lower Delaware is one of the richest in the country and the need for water will mount as the area continues to grow.

Development of the Upper Delaware is keeping pace and it will grow at an even faster clip with the almost-certain construction of the mammoth Tocks Island Dam at Bushkill.

This is designed chiefly as a flood control project, but would serve a number of other purposes as well. Public recreation development, hydropower production, municipal water supplies and control of the river flow are among the uses to which the $65,000,000 reservoir could be put.

A single agency would do away with the "multiplicity of agencies" which now exists. There are 19 federal bureaus, 14 interstate agencies and 43 state departments, commissions and bureaus now concerned with the river basin's water resources.

The Syracuse group recommends that the program be carried out in two steps—first, establishment of a federal agency by Congress as a transitional phase, and, second, setting up of the interstate-federal compact.

The Water Research Foundation for the Delaware differed on this one point, recommending that the interstate compact be completed as speedily as possible to eliminate need for an exclusively federal agency.

We agree and urge the respective states and the federal government to get together and lay the groundwork for a single agency which could proceed with the unified planning in the Delaware Basin. Such a program is long overdue and should not be delayed any longer.

Opinions Of Other Editors

Mitchell's Warning

At the convention of the AFL-CIO Secretary Mitchell had the unpopular task of telling the delegates the Taft-Hartley law would be invoked by the President if the steel strike runs into October. Even the mention of that act of Congress arouses the combativeness of any labor organization. But it is on the books, and the President would be derelict in his duty if he did not apply it in a case of national emergency.

Labor chiefs have spread abroad misconceptions of the law, so that many labor members think of it as a "slave statute." It is of course nothing of the sort. It simply compels an 80-day cooling-off period in which work is resumed. At the end of that time the strike can be continued if the union so decrees.

In previous application of the law that has not occurred. The disputing parties have patched up their differences, and a new contract has been signed.

But the Secretary is more than a little disturbed at the adamant stand of both the steel companies and the steel workers' union. They are digging in for a long battle, the companies insisting on no wage increase and the steel workers being promised millions of dollars from other unions to win their fight.

If the Taft-Hartley law is invoked and the strike is not settled after the 80 days intermission Congress is sure to take a hand, and that prospect is not pleasing to either side.

Democrats Disappointed

By Congressional Quarterly
Washington — Less than a third of the legislative program laid down last year by the Democratic Advisory Council has been enacted into law so far by the Democratic-controlled 86th Congress.

A check by Congressional Quarterly showed fewer than 20 of the more than 60 specific legislative actions recommended by the Advisory Council last Dec. 7 had gone through.

By any reason criterion, it won in the 1958 election would be clear that Democrats were disappointed in the hope that the increased majorities they enable them to "put through a larger portion of a clear and comprehensive Democratic program." Next year they will have a second chance at many of the bills that were stymied in 1959.

Proposals Enacted — Legislation recommended by the Advisory Council, policy-making arm of the Democratic National Committee, that went through in 1955 included statehood for Hawaii; continuation of Federal vocational education and "impacted area" school aid; enlargement of the medical research and hospital construction programs increased aid to small business, and a "food stamp" plan for distribution of surplus food to the needy.

Other "victories" were passage of the TVA self-financing bill, increase of funds for new starts on public works projects, extension of several housing and urban renewal programs, a boost in overseas technical assistance funds and the extension of the farm surplus disposal law.

Some of these "victories" were of much more modest dimensions than the Democrats had hoped. The housing program, for example was trimmed considerably to meet presidential vetoes.

Highlighting the long list of legislation recommended by the Advisory Council but not enacted in 1959 were these measures:

School construction aid and Federal scholarships; civil rights; revision of immigration, social security and public assistance laws; and an increase and broadening of the minimum wage and unemployment compensation programs.

Congress did not change basic farm legislation, reform the tax laws, pass a "clean elections" bill, give the District of Columbia home rule or provide long-term financing for the Development Loan Fund. Nor did it complete action on Community Facilities and Area Redevelopment legislation, also endorsed by the Advisory Council.

A nation without God has no vision, and a nation without vision will perish.

The Pennsylvania Story

Fish For Susquehanna

By Mason Denison
Harrisburg — Pennsylvanians may well have "jumping fish" sailing up and down the Susquehanna River in front of their State Capitol.

At least this is a good prospect if legislation now being considered by lawmakers on Capitol Hill gains final approval.

Jumping fish? What are jumping fish? Actually the terminology is a coinage. It means fish that move up and down a waterway and over large dams by means of jumping up fishladders or fishways over the dams.

Twenty-five years ago such proposals were considered the height of absurdity. Jumping fish indeed! In those days legislation authorizing the construction of "fishways" was regarded as laughing-stock, foolish.

Not so today. Pennsylvania's Susquehanna River—a stream comprising more than 1500 miles of waterways—is the only major river in the United States completely closed to the passage of migratory fish by reason of power dams located in its lower reaches.

But legislation is moving through the Legislature now that would authorize the Pennsylvania Fish Commission to use $75,000 to study the feasibility of fishway construction on the river. The bill passed the Senate last week — unanimously — and is now before the House of Representatives.

Under existing State law the Pennsylvania Fish Commission has the power to order the utility companies to build fishways for the passage of migratory fish such as shad, eels, striped bass, etc. When power companies received the grants to erect dams in the Susquehanna River.

As far as pollution is concerned, the taxpayers along the Susquehanna River have already spent more than $40,000,000 to comply with the Clean Streams Act by building disposal plants.

Industrial wastes have been curtailed and with the fall off in mine production along with better impounding methods and use of mined coal in the smaller sizes which used to be discarded, the contamination of the river has been greatly reduced.

Proof of this may be witnessed in the fact that the Schuylkill River, once one of the dirtiest rivers in Pennsylvania, is now being used by fishermen since its restoration.

It is held that the re-opening of the Susquehanna River would in effect add a huge natural fish hatchery to the artificial hatcheries now supported by the State as well as open the river once again to migratory fishing for sportsmen.

Jumping fish may yet sail up and down the river in front of Pennsylvania's State Capitol.

News From The Realm Of Stamps

By Raymond Patton

The new 15-cent U. S. Air Mail Stamp will have first day sale Nov. 20 at New York City, N. Y. In connection with the 11th National Postage Stamp Show sponsored by the American Stamp Dealers Assn.

The design for the new 15-cent air mail, which pays the basic rate on letters to Europe and Near East, features in the left panel a drawing of the upper portion of the Statue of Liberty with the slogan "Liberty for All" immediately above.

The lettering "U. S. Air Mail" and the denomination figure are arranged in the right portion of the design with a jet airplane silhouette superimposed over the "U."

The Statue of Liberty, the slogan and the airplane silhouette will be printed in black. The lettering "U. S. Air Mail," the denomination figure, the lines forming a frame around the stamp and between the panels of the stamp will be printed in orange.

The postmaster general revealed that designs are being prepared for the new 10 and 25 cent Air Mail stamps, and details of these will be announced at a later date. There are possibilities that one of the new air mails will picture the Liberty Bell and the likeness of Abraham Lincoln.

These stamps will be printed in two colors also on the Giori Press, and will be of the standard commemorative size, being distributed to the post offices in sheets of 50 stamps.

Sept. 29 at Washington, D. C. the four and 8-cent Ernst Reuter stamps will be issued. This is the Champion of Liberty Series and will be the fifth in this series.

All of this series have been issued in both the four and eight cent denominations except the first one honoring Ramon Magasayay which was only in the eight cent value. This is so that both domestic and foreign letters can carry these "Champion of Liberty" issues.

The reason utility companies were permitted to build power dams without fishways was that fishways had been tried on some of the dams farther upstream but were deemed to be failures. Also the Susquehanna River at that time was held to be too polluted for successful fishlife.

Today fishladders and locks have been proved, for example, at Bonneville Dam in Oregon and at Holyoke, Mass., where an electric fish lift has been installed in the Connecticut River.

As far as pollution is concerned, the taxpayers along the Susquehanna River have already spent more than $40,000,000 to comply with the Clean Streams Act by building disposal plants.

Industrial wastes have been curtailed and with the fall off in mine production along with better impounding methods and use of mined coal in the smaller sizes which used to be discarded, the contamination of the river has been greatly reduced.

Fight Brewing On Bible Reading

The ban on Bible reading in the public schools of Pennsylvania will receive more than one battle before it is put into operation.

Stroud Union Parents-Teachers Assn. went on record as opposing the court order on Monday night.

At least one organization of teachers in Monroe County is preparing a resolution opposing the court order handed down in Philadelphia.

Many other similar organizations, in all sections of Pennsylvania, either have or will protest the court order that makes it unconstitutional for a teacher to read several verses from the Bible at the start of each public school day.

Undoubtedly some of these organizations, and certainly many of the people registering protests, live right here in Monroe County.

This ruling won't become law without a large chorus of protests.

Michael Halperin, son of Dr. and Mrs. Meyer Halperin, East Stroudsburg RD 2, a graduate of New York Military Academy, was among new students entering Washington College, Chestertown, Md., last Sunday.

Formal welcoming of the freshmen was made by Dr. Daniel Z. Gibson, College president, at a reception for new students, their parents, and the faculty Sunday afternoon at his home.

"Freshman Week" officially began Monday morning in William Smith Hall auditorium where Dr. Gibson and Dean Robert Kirkwood addressed the group.

A week of orientation, entertainment, testing, and getting acquainted is underway for the class of 1963. Classes will begin Friday.

Halperin attended East Stroudsburg State Teachers College, and at Washington College he hopes to major in Science and Philosophy.

The Allen-Scott Report

Census Question Vital

Robert S. Allen and Paul Scott are on vacation. During their absence, the Director of the Census Bureau writes on a subject of direct personal interest to every man, woman and child in the country.

By Robert S. Burgess, Director, Bureau of the Census

Washington — Why does the Census Bureau ask so many questions?

Who uses the answers? These are all fair questions. There is a good answer for each of them.

A general answer to all is the fact that the Census Bureau each day gets more than 2,000 requests for information. To meet these requests for information, it must first collect the information by asking questions or drawing on administrative records.

The requests for information cover the whole range of subjects about people, their homes, and their activities. The inquiries come to the Census Bureau because it is a central point at which much of this information is available.

Those who turn to the Census Bureau for information include managers of businesses and factories, operators of agricultural enterprises, editors and journalists, economists, sociologists, teachers, students, and many different agencies of government.

As the nation's greatest producer of statistics the Census Bureau is engaged in almost continuous collection of data on every phase of American life — economic, political, and social. These activities touch every man, woman, and child, and every household, factory, farm, mine, and populated place in the country.

Essentially the function of the Census Bureau is to provide the necessary data by which to measure the nation's progress. Without the yardstick furnished by collection, analysis, publication, and distribution of such information it would be difficult for federal, state, and local governments effectively to operate, and for business, industry, and agriculture to plan for future productivity.

The Constitution of the United States provides for a population census to be taken every 10 years, primarily to determine the apportionment of representation in Congress among the states. The first census in 1790 collected only a few facts about the population. Subsequently, the scope of the census was expanded to cover manufactures since 1810, agriculture and mining since 1840, governmental units since 1850, business (retail, wholesale, and service trades) since 1929, and housing since 1940.

Thus the Census Bureau's practice of asking questions is not an innovation, and has its roots in constitutional law, and its expansion over 170 years has roots in the growing need of the people as a whole for more information about themselves and their activities.

Questions to be asked in a census must be selected to furnish as much information as possible to the wide number and variety of users of statistics. These questions must be determined in light of the ability of respondents to furnish reasonably accurate answers.

Preliminary to drafting questions to be asked in the 1960 Census, for instance, the professional staff of the Census Bureau studied the uses made of information gathered in previous censuses and the requests that had been received for new information.

Attention was given to changes in social and economic conditions which in themselves called for new inquiries or modifications of the standard questions.

Several years in advance of the 1960 Census, the Bureau arranged for meetings with groups of census-statistics users in various parts of the country. Many suggestions were received at these meetings, among which three expansions of need stood out: (1) greater timeliness, (2) more attention to small areas, and (3) addition of information on relation of place of work to place of residence.

The census that attracts the most attention of course is the Census of Population and it is, in all respects, the largest of the Census Bureau's statistical undertakings. It provides the information that serves as the basis point to which the results of all the other censuses and intercensal surveys are related in assessing the needs and the capacities of the nation.

Some of the key figures to be secured in the 1960 Census are the population totals of the various jurisdictions and areas. Size is not only a matter of civic pride; it has many direct consequences. The apportionment of representation in the Congress and in the legislatures of most states is based on the latest official Census figures.

Many research studies use the Population Census figures to analyze such topics as factors in the growth of the population, the geographic distribution of the population, centralization and decentralization in metropolitan areas, the movement of the Negro population away from rural areas in the South, the continuing growth of the West, the increase and changing distribution of the older population, and many others.

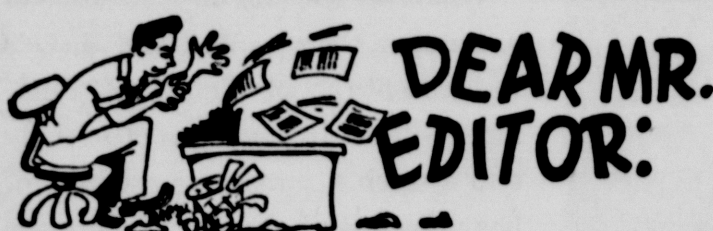

Military planning requires current manpower figures. Reliable year-to-year estimates of the number of persons of military age require the basic count by age and sex made in the decennial census.

Retail and service businesses, planning new outlets, examine census facts about the number of people and their characteristics, the homes and their characteristics, to determine the kinds of goods and services likely to prove profitable in given locations.

Manufacturers planning new locations rely on census figures for information on the supply and characteristics of the labor potential in the proposed areas.

With the growing interest in housing, there is an increased demand for housing statistics, particularly for small areas within cities.

A direct and personal use of information collected in decennial censuses of population has been made by more than 3 1/2 million persons without birth certificates who have obtained transcripts of the facts they once furnished the census taker, for use as proof of age or citizenship.

Will Perish Without God

Mr. Jack Hill, Editor

Dear Sir:

I am too busy to write about many things, but the court decision discontinuing reading of the Bible and reciting the Lord's Prayer in our public schools is too much for me to let go without comment.

We are told in Scripture to beware of false prophets who go about in sheep's clothing seek to deceive the very elect. We are also warned not to strain at gnats and swallow camels.

We complain about juvenile delinquency and then take the Bible and prayer, from children who may not get it otherwise.

How far are we going astray from the foundations laid down by our forefathers?

We stretch a point here and there, we lose one freedom after another through clever camouflage. We welcome Premier Khrushchev with a large smoke cross in the sky designating our faith and trust in God. Several days later out of a clear sky comes the ban on Bible reading and the Lord's Prayer in the schools.

This can very well lead to banning the President's Proclamation at Thanksgiving and the observance of World Day of Prayer. Other holy days could be affected as far as their being proclaimed religious days.

Terminology work for many years before the timbers collapse and if you are only a casual observer you will not detect their presence. They leave no external trail but work from the inside.

Many people are too busy hunting, fishing, boating and having a glorious time or perhaps too busy making money to be bothered with such a trifle as Bible reading or prayer in the schools.

Many children go unchurched, undisciplined, unloved and completely unqualified to meet the complicated problems of modern life.

How can we deny them this morsel of truth and refreshment at the beginning of each school day?

All children need it but especially those children who have no church or Sunday school affiliation.

For those who believe in another doctrine, if you teach your children your belief at home, and practice it, I assure you Bible reading and prayer will not lead them astray.

And remember, many children never hear God's word or recite a prayer except on this occasion.

Just Between Us —

—by Bobby Westbrook

Touche! There is no excuse, as George Levin pointed out, for quoting Lincoln's Gettysburg Address as part of the Constitution. Nor would there be much point in bringing in the Declaration of Independence which not only refers to God but to Divine Providence and the Creator.

At any rate, his letter did spur me to read all three of them. And moreover to read a transcript of the whole court decision in the Abington Twp. case.

It makes fascinating, if sort of prickly, reading. The whole thing came about when Ellory Schenck, who was graduated in 1958, was a junior at Abington. He complained of the practice of Bible reading and demonstrated his objection by reading to himself a copy of the Koran while the Bible was being read and refusing to stand during the recitation of the Lord's Prayer.

Unfair, Ellory testified that he did not believe in the divinity of Christ, the Immaculate Conception, or the concepts of an anthropomorphic God or the Trinity, yet had all of these doctrines read to him at one time or another at school.

His was the only complaint ever received, and yet all of this has resulted. It demonstrates one thing — the power of one individual in a republic is a tremendous thing, for good or evil.

And if, as individuals, we don't exert that power, we have nobody but ourselves to blame for results we don't like.

The Wyckoff Shopper

'The Friendly Store' Wyckoff

Blanche Mackey is floating on air these days for the world's best reason. Her son Bruce, a corporal in the U.S. Army, is home for thirty exciting days, arriving quite unexpectedly Sunday evening as Blanche was crocheting a rug and George was watching TV. Bruce has really been touring the world—Korea, Japan, and other far-off places, but those who've seen him say he looks wonderful.

There is, I dare say, no more devout fellow anywhere than Rod MacLeod, staff photographer of The Daily Record . . . unless it might be Captain Drummond of the Salvation Army. Mac's pictures in the local newspaper are very often deeply thoughtful and philosophical, and unquestionably reverent.

That is exactly the way he impressed me, and hundreds of other readers, with his front page picture of last Friday morning showing a hand holding a Bible, in chains, before a public school building. Rod meant his picture to editorialize the awfulness of having the Bible fettered. He meant to show the painfulness of it . . . the heartrending tragedy of such a happening. This is exactly the message it conveyed to me, and probably to you also.

But another side of the story was felt this past Saturday evening when, in keeping with its usual custom, the Salvation Army visited various "tap rooms" soliciting funds. The word had spread that the Bible was held by Captain Drummond . . . and there were repercussions. Some who were solicited, refused because of the part they felt a Salvation Army representative had played in making "a picture that DEFAMED the Bible."

Mack is still confused by this turn of events. True, the Bible was chained—but only long enough to take the picture, and only for the purpose of illustrating more graphically than words the terrible enormity of a federal court ruling against Bible reading in the school . . . and certainly nothing but the deepest reverence and love motivated the pose and the picture-taking. As Mac explains, "It's too bad anyone should have suffered from the idea. It just goes to prove that there are always two schools of thought, even about things you do not realize could be controversial."

Aside to Mrs. Edward Oyer of Portland: Thank you deeply and sincerely for your letter. I am pleased that you listen to our radio program, and appreciate your taking the time to write.

When I checked Monday, there were still seven seats available on the Allentown Fair bus trip of tomorrow. If you are interested in spending a day in Allentown, call our shoe department at once. Fare is only $2.50.

A telephone call from Florence Eldredge (wife of artist Allan Eldredge) informs me that Edwin F. Beemer, who has been a judge of our Wyckoff art shows, is having a show of his paintings beginning today, and running through October 3rd, at the Ceille Galleries, in New York. Mr. Beemer spent six years at the National Academy, studied at Columbia University School of Fine Arts, Art Students League, and Cooper Union; is represented in the Harry Payne Whitney collection, and was a charter member of the Whitney Studio Club of New York. Of recent years he has been affiliated with the Pocono Mountains Art Group. A fine gentleman and gifted painter, we are sure many local art lovers will wish to see his New York show if possible.

Presbyterian Women Protest Bible Ruling

The United Presbyterian Women of the Stroudsburg Church yesterday went on record as protesting the decision of the Circuit Court declaring the Pennsylvania law requiring daily reading of the Bible and reciting of the Lord's Prayer in the public schools as unconstitutional.

The resolution also recommended some positive action be taken after studying the effects of the decision and the most effective means of redress.

The action came at the silver tea held at the home of Mrs. John A. LeBar on Chipperfield Drive. Mrs. Elton Denning presided at the business meeting when the group planned their part as hosts to the Lehigh Presbyterian in Stroudsburg on October 2.

Mrs. Francis Brodhead is in charge of reservations for the luncheon; Mrs. E. H. Wyckoff's Holmes Circle of ushers; Mrs. Russell Harmon and the Mary Anderson circle of decorations.

The group also voted to increase their pledges for national missions, Christian education, and ecumenical missions for the year. Mrs. Clifford Heller read the report of the nominating committee.

The program, arranged by Mrs. Edward C. Hess, was "How Is Your MQ?" The initials stood for "Maturity Quotient". Mrs. John Bollinger led the devotions. A paper composed of Mrs. Gordon Coy, Mrs. Charles Smith, Mrs. Clifford Heller and Mrs. Harold Lee suggested various approaches to achieving spiritual maturity. Mrs. Horace Westbrook reviewed the court decision.

Mrs. Denning and Mrs. E. H. Wyckoff presided at the tea table.

Four-Panel Screen Easy To Make

THIS attractive, easy to make, four-panel screen standing approximately 66 inches high is really easy to build. The full size pattern offered can be traced directly on one-eighth-inch plywood by placing carbon paper under the full size pattern.

Step-by-step directions explain how to rout out the design and paint it to achieve the unusual appearance illustrated.

Since screens now play an important role in home furnishings, everyone is attracted to the design illustrated. If you want a wider screen, add additional panels. No artistic ability is required to either trace the design or paint the areas the pattern specifies.

All materials and hardware are stock items readily available at lumber yards everywhere.

While screens of comparable quality cost from five to 10 times the cost of the materials, a profitable spare time business can be developed by making these for resale.

Make one and you'll see what a sensation it develops among your neighbors and friends who see it.

Send 50 cents in coin or money order to Designer's Screen, Pattern Number 930 to The Daily Record, P. O. Box 215, Pleasantville, N.Y.

Send additional 35 cents for 64-page catalog illustrating over 300 other "Build It Yourself" projects. Add 25 cents for first class mail.

Fibers Find New Popularity

NATURAL fibers are finding renewed popularity. Home-owners are responding to richness of color, to texture, and to line and today, more and more of nature's oldest products are hitting the market in exciting new treatments.

In cloth this takes the form of interesting weaves and color tones and combinations in cotton, wool, and silk.

In wood furniture it is often the design that enhances the grain, and in lumber paneling we find an exciting use of pigmented stains that color-match the paneling to the rest of a room's decor.

Paneling lends a touch of luxury wherever it is used. It is suitable anywhere—even in bathrooms now that sealers permit the use of wood in high humidity areas—and among the most adaptable woods for paneling are those from the western pine region. There are 10 different species, they are readily available, and they will take any paint or stain.

Perhaps what comes as the best news of all is that western pine paneling takes very little upkeep.

House Plan Made For Large Family

THIS week's featured home is not large, and yet, it can adequately accommodate the needs of a large family. Flexibility is the underlying theme—flexibility in design, in living space, and in cost.

If your lot and budget allows, a breezeway and attached garage could be easily added to the basic design. On the other hand, you can delay completion of the two large bedrooms and second bath upstairs to avoid this additional cost burden during the initial construction stages.

Basic Design

The basic design calls for four bedrooms, two baths, kitchen and combination living and dining area.

With its window planter box, covered porch and lattice work, the exterior has a cozy, yet distinctive air.

To the left of the front entrance is a well proportioned living room. There's plenty of window space here and still enough wall area for interesting furniture groupings.

Combined with the dining room, this area offers a wonderful feeling of cheery spaciousness.

The kitchen at the back makes effective use of every inch. Long and narrow for full efficiency, this area is convenient to the basement stairs, the side entrance and, of course, to the dining space.

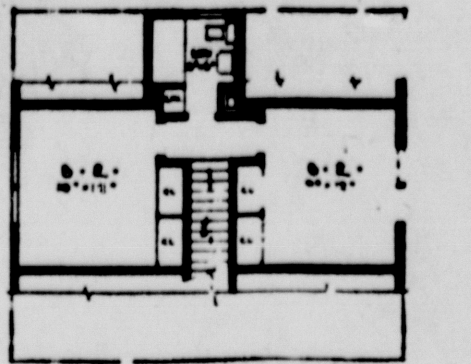

The right side of the first level and the upstairs have been completely devoted to the home's four bedrooms, bathrooms and closet facilities.

Each of the bedrooms have generous dimensions and with the exception of the back downstairs bedroom, all have double wardrobe closets.

Economics

By positioning the baths one on top of the other, definite economies in materials and labor are permitted without sacrificing conveniences.

This plan conforms to general FHA, VA and Building Code requirements. The plan's first level contains 728 square feet and the second level has an additional 360 square feet upstairs.

SECOND FLOOR

FIRST FLOOR

Builders or material suppliers can give the average cost per square or cubic foot in this area. Enlargements of this floor plan and design are available for 25 cents each.

Complete building plan, including detail sheet, material list, and specification guide for Design Number H-2028 may be purchased for $9.75 for one set; two for $18.75; three for $26.25; or four for $33.75. You may also purchase The Daily Record Plan Book showing 71 designs for 75 cents postpaid. Address all questions and orders to HomeGraf Home Plan Dept., The Daily Record, Warren, Mich.

New Home Furnishing Ideas

WOMEN who drool over home decoration settings shown in advertisements may soon have a voice in what comes off the designing boards.

A new idea in home furnishings planning is to get the woman's reaction before a design goes into production, says Norman Ginsberg, head of the National Design Center in New York City.

"The popularity of this center where more than 200 manufacturers have exhibited furnishings has shown us the importance of displaying new ideas to a nationwide audience before they go into production. It permits criticizing an object at the design level, a plan that receives wholehearted support of designers as well as manufacturers," he explains.

This new approach, he says, will give the manufacturer confidence that the design will go over before it ever reaches the production stage. And manufacturers are in the mood to give more leeway to designers in order to come up with furnishings to more effectively meet foreign competitors, he adds.

Free Expression

"Each month the center's advisory council will choose a designer, either a talented unknown or an established designer, to take over space at the center and do exactly what he likes in expressing himself," Ginsberg explains. "When these designs wind up their stay in New York tours to other cities will be planned."

There have been some tests made at the center, he says, and these have been so successful that manufacturers are anxious to cooperate in expanding design centers to other areas in the country.

"A homemaker wants to see color schemes, furniture designs, floor coverings, window materials and other home furnishings all in one package, and be able to make a decision about their purchase without sales pressure," Ginsberg explains.

Department store turnover is too rapid to stock great quantities of merchandise needed to organize these large-scale room settings. Storage becomes a problem. But the buyer has a large investment in the home and likes to see a workable plan, he points out.

Clearing House

The center acts as a clearing house for the home furnishings industry in addition to showing complete room settings and displays, offering product information, the availability of products in a particular location, and the price. It also has organized merchandising kits for brides, offering advice on purchases of linens, china, silver, in the selection of decorators, and other advice.

Ginsberg has surrounded himself with the best design talent in the country. The center's advisory council represents some of the top names in the business including Raymond Loewy, Dorothy Draper, Melanie Kahane, Michael Greer, Yale Gurge, George Nelson, Pierre Berard, Dorothy Liebes.

Ginsberg says the success of this venture is mainly due to the confidence he has in the good taste of American women when given an opportunity to display their design preferences.

Roof Paints Aid To Old Roofs

OLD, worn-out roofs can be given new life and beauty—and the life expectancy of new roofs can be greatly extended—by using roof coatings or one of the roof paints recently introduced by the paint industry.

These roof paints are of three general types. One is asphalt combined with aluminum flakes either in the natural metallic color or in a choice of pastels. The second is the alkyl-type paints pigmented with aluminum. And the third is white latex, or water-thinned, paints designed for exterior use.

The alkyl roof paints generally contain asbestos fibers for greater strength, body and insulation. The asphalt coatings are made with and without the asbestos.

All three types have the added advantage of reflecting a great portion of the sun's heat. Tests have showed it is possible to reduce the temperature under a black asphalt roof by as much as 16 degrees if it is painted white. Aluminum paints result in a slightly lower heat reduction.

The aluminum coatings will give satisfactory service on any roofing material except wood. They can be applied to built-up, composition or felt roofing, to metal roofing, asbestos-cement shingles, tile or slate. Wooden shingles can be painted with any non-chalking exterior white paint, but to prevent the old shingle stain from bleeding through, a latex paint should be used as a prime coat.

Galvanized metal roofs should first receive a prime coat of zinc dust-zinc oxide paint, which is sometimes called metallic zinc paint.

This can be followed by any non-chalking white paint or aluminum paint. Asphalt paints, while not necessary over metal roofs, will last longer than the other paints.

DON PARSONS, Executive Director, Super Market Institute "The University of Food Retailing"

...BETTER MEALS BUILD BETTER FAMILIES!"

SUPER MARKET INSTITUTE, an organization of 756 super market firms, is among the leading food trade associations that have heartily endorsed the nationwide movement called "Better Meals Build Better Families."

Says Don Parsons, Executive Director of Super Market Institute: "Super Market Institute is glad to rally its nationwide membership behind the promotion of 'Better Meals Build Better Families.' This is a practical expression of SMI's own precept: 'That there may be more for all.' Better meals mean more health, more vigor, more achievement, and more happiness for America's families. Since better meals mean more nutritious meals, using more of our land's bounty of plentiful foods, it follows that such a program will benefit farmers, processors and retailers as well as consumers."

During September 14-26, your local food stores and your daily newspaper will emphasize the importance of good food and regular family meals in building a healthier nation.

Watch the pages of this newspaper for complete details of the "Better Meals Build Better Families" drive, and for special announcements to be issued by your local food retailers.

Chisox Clinch 1st Flag In 40 Years In American

CLEVELAND (AP) — The Chicago White Sox Tuesday night won the American League pennant, their first in 40 years.

The clincher game on a 4-2 victory over Cleveland, the margin being consecutive, sixth-inning homers by Al Smith and Jim Rivera. That gave Chicago a 4½-game lead over the Indians, with three Chicago and four Cleveland games left.

East Stroudsburg Teachers varsity football team suffered a severe blow last Saturday in victory over Kutztown STC. The Warriors, it was learned yesterday, lost the services of regular right half Frank Lupin for the remainder of the season.

Lupin, a former East Stroudsburg High two-sports star, received a shoulder separation while turning in a tremendous block which started the "Hill" eleven toward triumph against Kutztown.

Lupin's block paved the way for a long gain by quarterback John Brunner which subsequently set up ESSTC's first TD.

The spirited play of Lupin on this maneuver put new life in the Warriors and they went on to wallop Kutztown 22-0.

At the time when Lupin was injured ESSTC only held a 2-0 edge.

Inadvertently The Daily Record reported the wrong player scoring a touchdown for Stroudsburg High in the Mountaineers game with Lehigh on last Friday. The TD should have gone to sophomore quarterback Warren Loney instead of the previously credited John Baylor.

Loney, a minute-size signal-caller, played offensively for the Mountaineers, and did a yeoman job for a boy who was playing his first varsity game of football.

Dr. George Ockershausen, director of athletics at East Stroudsburg Teachers College, was at Stroudsburg High yesterday making final plans for the Warriors' night game with strong Ithaca College at Gordon Giffels Field Saturday night.

Ockershausen conferred with Mahlon Serfass, Stroudsburg faculty member of athletics, and Walt Bjorn, Mountaineers head football coach, on the field set up and an ESSTC practice session under the lights at Giffels.

Stroudsburg High's new football scoreboard will get its baptism of fire when the Mountaineers take on Emmaus High under the lights Friday at Giffels Field.

The scoreboard, a part gift of the 1958 Stroudsburg High senior class, will subsequently be paid for by a magazine subscription drive now in progress under the sponsorship of the Stroudsburg student body.

M. Stiles Baldwin and his wife Henrietta, and Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Stofflet will take in Navy's football game at Annapolis this weekend.

Baldwin is a very good friend of Wayne Hardin, the Middlesex grid coach who succeeded abruptly Eddie Erdalatz as head Navy coach last spring.

BOWLING TIDBITS—Bushkill League—Norris Fish with a single of 195 and 500 for three paces H. M. Place, Builder's Team to a four-point win over Turn's General Store. Winano 5 Falls won three points from Rick DePue. High man for the Falls team was Herman Taylor with a 204 and 509. A 207 game by Albert Hovey Sr., was largely responsible for the one point for Rick DePue. Til Courtwright had a 182 and 508 to lead the Bushkill Falls team to four points.

It was announced that Larry Hill, Lehigh outfielder, won the batting championship with a .491 average, and Doug Price won the pitching title with a 11-1 record during the regular campaign.

Web Shafer was named chairman of the ticket committee, while Dick Miller was selected to head the speaker's committee.

Carl (Phiz) Nauman will donate the programs for the banquet. He received a vote of thanks from the managers and officials.

The banquet, set for the Lake House, Saylorsburg, Saturday night, Oct. 24, will start at 7:30 o'clock sharp.

The winner was Chicago's grand old man of pitching, 39-year-old Early Wynn, although he failed to finish.

With the crowd in bedlam, relief ace Gerry Staley got Vic Power to smash the first pitch on the ground to Chicago shortstop Luis Aparicio, who raced to second for the force play and then threw to first to nip Power by an eyelash.

Manager Al Lopez quickly replaced Wynn with his other ace, young Bob Shaw, when Cleveland shaved Chicago's lead to 4-2 in the sixth. It was the 21st victory against 10 defeats for Wynn. In the top of the sixth, a former Indian, Al Smith, and Jungle Jim Rivera spanked back-to-back homers off Jim (Mudcat) Grant, who relieved starter Jim Perry at the start of that inning.

Both Lopez and Cleveland's deposed manager, Joe Gordon, directed this game with every trick they had in the book. Lopez used his two best pitchers and maneuvered players every inch of the way. He put his two "injured" men, catcher Sherm Lollar and center fielder Jim Landis, into the game for defensive measures.

Gordon, who presumably will be handed his walking papers Wednesday by General Manager Frank Lane, used pinch hitter after pinch hitter, and sent out his pitching best—Perry, Grant, Gary Bell and Jack Harshman.

Giants Hopes Fade On Cub Homer In 9th

CHICAGO (AP) — San Francisco's pennant hopes went sailing out of the park Tuesday on a two-run ninth inning homer by George Altman which gave the Chicago Cubs a 5-4 victory.

Doubles by Willie McCovey and Willie Kirkland in a two-run eighth inning pushed the Giants ahead 4-3 and it looked as if reliever Sam Jones had things under control in the ninth before Altman slammed his 11th homer into the bleachers with an 0-1 count.

Jones took care of the Cubs in the eighth giving up a harmless single. Al Dark, however, led off the ninth with a double. Jones retired the next two batters as Dark held second. After Altman had fouled off a curve, Jones tossed a fast ball which Altman stroked for his third homer in two games.

Reliever Don Elston took the victory for his ninth triumph in 17 decisions. Jones, San Francisco's third pitcher, is now 9-15.

Dodgers Drop To 2nd Via Cards' Upset

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The Milwaukee Braves surged into a one-game lead in the National League pennant race Tuesday night, surviving another ninth-inning Pittsburgh rally for a 5-3 victory. Los Angeles stumbled out of a first-place tie with an 11-10 defeat at St. Louis.

The Braves, winning four in a row in their drive for a third straight flag, have a two-game lead over third-place San Francisco, beaten 5-4 by the Chicago Cubs. Each of the three contenders has four games to play.

The Braves' Juan Pizarro who had driven in two runs with a seventh-inning double and scored during the three-run inning, suddenly weakened in the ninth.

Don McMahon came on and made Roberto Clemente fly out and also struck out dangerous Dick Stuart. Smoky Burgess' single drove in Bob Skinner and Don Hoak's single scored Dick Groat before pinch-hitter Rocky Nelson finally grounded out to end it.

Pizarro's double, that turned out to be the game-winner, hit just inside the left field foul line.

Cavaliers Seek Punch For Attack

EAST Stroudsburg High's coaching staff, disappointed somewhat with the Cavaliers' offense, began working out several new faces at halfback posts in order to step up the team's attack.

Coach Jack Kist announced yesterday that Mike Puzio, Bob Farris and Ronnie Ray will get a chance to break in the Cavaliers starting lineup if either one or all three show enough promise this week in workouts.

Face Pen Argyl

Eastburg takes on Pen Argyl in a Lehigh-Northampton game at Weona Park Saturday afternoon, starting at 2 o'clock.

Last Friday the Cavaliers and Slatington played a 0-0 duel. Saturday's game will be Pen Argyl's first of the season.

"Our team showed a tremendous amount of spirit in the Slatington game," Kist said. "However the spirit couldn't overcome some of the mistakes we made," he said.

This week the Cavaliers will brush up on tackling, defensive end work, pass offense and defense.

Missed Chances

"Our play against Slatington wasn't too bad, although we missed several opportunities to get into the scoring column. But this comes with experience," Kist noted.

Aljotin (Vic) was the only consistent ground gainer we had all night and Edman (Jack) did a commendable job at quarterback despite his lack of experience."

"What we need is better running from the other backs and a passing offense which will balance our attack somewhat," the Eastburg mentor said.

What about Pen Argyl?

"They're fast," Kist reminded. "We'll have to be on

Donmoyer Cleared Of Six Charges At Allentown School

ALLENTOWN—Six of a total of nine charges against William A. Donmoyer, Allentown electrical contractor, have been dismissed by an investigating unit of the Allentown School Board. The charges, made by the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, Local 367, through its business manager, George Wilson, claimed that work done by the Donmoyer firm on Allentown High School the past summer were sub-standard.

Martin J. Coyne, solicitor for the school board, reported Monday night that he has investigated the nine counts and he said there is no basis for complaint on six of them.

Of the three charges still remaining to be investigated, Coyne said he will request a physical inspection of the work to determine the truth of them.

Proves Point

"This is no whitewash. We believe both the union, which submitted the charges, and Donmoyer should have every opportunity to prove their points. We are satisfied in six instances that Donmoyer did not violate his contract."

"We hope, before the end of this week, to have the Middle Department Assn. of Fire Underwriters conduct a thorough inspection relative to the remaining three charges. In fairness to all parties concerned, we will invite as witnesses to that inspection, in addition to school directors and administrative officials, representatives of the union and the contracting firm," Coyne reported.

Donmoyer was also faced with similar charges by the same employees making the Allentown testimony during a meeting of the East Stroudsburg Area Joint School Building Authority approximately two weeks ago.

At that time the two employees involved in the Allentown dispute, Timothy W. Dickert, Bethlehem Rd. 2, and Theodore Destan, Zionsville, said the firm had paid straight time for overtime, and that some of the work done was sub-standard, being done by incompetent workmen.

Donmoyer had a contract calling for electrical repairs to the Allentown School during an electrical modernization program.

Donmoyer said at the time the charges were made that his books were open for inspection as to the charges of insufficient pay, and he denied he had incompetent workmen on the site in East Stroudsburg.

Burglary At Route 90 Stand

AN undetermined quantity of cigarettes and some small change was taken from an ice cream stand on Route 90 north of Allentown over the weekend.

Edward Sommers, Walnutport, fell and hit his left elbow. Examination revealed a contusion of the area and it was treated accordingly.

Walter Bishop, Delaware Water Gap, was treated for a cut on the forehead which he explained he received from a moving truck.

Robert Stettler, age seven, treated for a puncture wound of the right foot.

Edward Hudak, age seven, accidentally struck by a golf club and sustained a laceration in the region of the left brow. This was sutured and treated.

Carl Nedler, Kenville, N. J., was treated for a twisted ankle which he said he sustained while stepping off a truck.

Chester Rydzelski, Wilkes-Barre, caught his left forefinger between two heavy pieces of steel. Examination revealed a chip fracture and he was treated.

Judy Franklin, Snyderderville, fell from a ladder at her home and landed directly on both knees. She was treated for contusions of both knees which were swelled.

Pamela Allen, Monroe St., Stroudsburg, fell down collar steps and sustained a laceration of the scalp. Seven sutures were needed.

Clifford Saffin, injured his left hand while working on his car. Examination revealed an abrasion which was treated.

Marsha Styles, age nine, of Mount Bethel, fell from a tree and landed on her outstretched hand. She came to the accident ward complaining of pain in her right wrist. X-rays revealed a fracture which was treated.

Paul Stofflet, Stroudsburg R.D. 1, while making a repair to the motor on his tractor was injured on the hand when the fan spun and hit him on the right hand. The injury was at the right fourth finger and required 10 sutures to close and there was also compound fractures of the finger.

Pike-Wayne Association Plans Banquet

WITH Raymond Furman, former Lieutenant-Governor of Pennsylvania and member of the Turnpike Commission as its principal speaker, The Pike-Wayne Tavern Assn. will stage its seventh annual banquet and dance on Thursday night, Oct. 8, at The Continental, Greentown.

Joseph Oppelt, operator of The Vinobona Hotel, Newfoundland, president of the association, will greet members and guests and introduce the master of ceremonies, Paul Krulowitch, Eastern District Sales Manager of the Liebmans Breweries.

Oppelt will be assisted by Joseph Brennan, Uswick; Charles Ellsworth, Hamlin, and Catherine R. Newhard, Hawley.

Arrangements for the event were supervised by Mrs. Dorothy Wood, banquet chairman, assisted by Thomas Reger, Greentown; Frank Seifert, Newfoundland; Art Friedel, Greeley; Edward Maucher, Tafton; and Joseph D'Annabale, Hawley.

Membership Drive
During the past two years the association has sponsored a membership drive which enabled it to enroll the majority of the licensees of the two counties.

It also embarked on a program of cooperation with the Pennsylvania Tavern Assn. and launched a public relations program that has earned it considerable praise from other local tavern groups throughout the state.

Recently, "Tap and Tavern", a trade newspaper published in Philadelphia, praised the association's public relations program in an editorial headed "Words of Wisdom" and urged all local organizations in the Commonwealth to adopt similar programs.

During the past year, at state conventions of the Pennsylvania group not only endorsed but Tavern Assn., the Pike-Wayne proposed corrective legislation including a bill to permit a longer nighttime operational period and the permitting of service on Sundays to accommodate diners that have been crossing state lines to enjoy cocktails with their Sunday meals.

Oppelt decried the loss, to Commonwealth restaurant, of millions of dollars of Sunday restaurant sales responsible for the loss of taxation, food sales and employment.

Several days ago the local group was represented at the state tavern convention held at Williamsport. In the party were Oppelt, Secretary, Mrs. Wood; Charles Ellsworth, Art Friedel and Lawrence Hoyer, Milford.

Their report was delivered to the Pike-Wayne group at its meeting of Monday held at The Continental, Greentown.
